MARAM BAHRI – Saudi Arabia
Graphic Design | Fine Arts

"As an art student I really enjoy my classes in stained glass – the professor is amazing. It's an Arab tradition to design with stained glass and now one of my pieces will be displayed in the Castle on campus. At Felician the professors focus on every person to help you succeed. After graduation I plan to attend graduate school in the U.S."

YAHAO GUO – China
Undecided Major

"I like to explore the cultural differences between China and the U.S. It only takes 30 minutes to get to New York City where I can walk around and enjoy the great food and shopping. My favorite place is the New York Public Library on 5th Avenue."

MADINA TALL – Senegal
Communications
Women's Basketball

"People are very caring at Felician. The Counseling Center was so helpful when I was a little homesick during my first year. I love taking the bus to New York City to walk around – I found great Senegalese food in Harlem!"

RACHEL TSHIKUYA – Congo RD
Master of Business (MBA)

"I started in the Felician ESL program and it was fantastic to learn with other students from around the world. I really enjoy the leadership courses in the MBA program. I hope to have my own store in the U.S. after I graduate."

FELICIAN EXCELLENCE

Ahmed Alghamdi from Saudi Arabia received his Master of Arts in Education at Felician and continued his studies at the University of Alabama's PhD program in Special Education.

HONORS PROGRAM:

Interact more closely with professors. Honors classes are smaller, allowing for a stimulating, intellectual exchange of ideas.

Explore subjects on a deeper level through classroom discussions, critical reading, writing, and lab experience.

Conduct independent scholarly research and capstone projects with faculty mentors. Receive guidance on research methods, resources, and issues common in different fields.

Pursue any major! The Honors program draws students from all academic areas.

Study alongside other top academic students in high-impact learning environments.

Students in the United Nations Fellowship Program have the opportunity to attend U.N. briefings and to intern with other NGOs and departments within the U.N.

UNITED NATIONS FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

With official status as a Non-Governmental Organization (NGO) at the United Nations, Felician University is committed to raising public awareness about the purposes and activities of the U.N.

Students in our U.N. Fellows program work about 10 hours per week at the U.N. throughout the semester, attending weekly briefings, forums and conferences. The opportunity to network with other university students and people from around the world gives students a new direction for their own career goals.

The U.N. Fellows program is coordinated by HRH Prince Adnan El-Hashemite, Executive Director of the Global Academic Initiatives Center [GAIC] at Felician University. He is also Dean of The Royal Academy of Science International Trust (RASIT), a United Nations-affiliated NGO devoted to promoting sustainable development, global health and gender equality throughout the world, particularly within scientific sectors like health care, pharmaceutical and biotech industries.
